

Statement of Purpose

The FLAS Fellowship is a crucial component of both my current academic plans and future career goals. As a [REDACTED] student in the [REDACTED] [REDACTED] program and a candidate¹ for the University of Illinois's [REDACTED] program, this fellowship will allow me to further develop my language skills in [REDACTED] and [REDACTED], which are both essential to my academic work regarding third sector policy of the European Union (EU). Upon completion of both the [REDACTED] program² and the [REDACTED] program, I will be able to accomplish my professional goal, which is to return to [REDACTED] as a [REDACTED] employed by a non-profit organization engaged in anti-trafficking work. Since both [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] are critical languages for my academic and professional goals, I am applying for a Summer FLAS Fellowship [REDACTED] to study Advanced [REDACTED] and an Academic Year FLAS Fellowship [REDACTED] to study Intermediate [REDACTED].

My [REDACTED] thesis is focusing on EU anti-trafficking policy and its relationship to non-profit organizations (as a part of the third sector) engaged in anti-trafficking work. Since this is quite a broad topic, I will limit the scope of my research to the [REDACTED] non-profit sector, specifically non-profit organizations located in [REDACTED]. Prior to beginning the [REDACTED] program, I secured an opportunity to conduct research with a small non-profit organization, located in [REDACTED], during the summer of [REDACTED]. In [REDACTED] I was awarded a [REDACTED] Travel Grant in order to assist with the overall cost of carrying out this research project. At this time, I am scheduled to conduct my research during the month of [REDACTED].

This topic is directly related to the academic study of the EU, specifically to the areas of third sector policy, the issue of human trafficking, and the role of non-profit organizations. The EU has an arsenal of anti-trafficking policy, including a recently introduced strategic plan for [REDACTED]. This plan boasts over forty "actions", each designed to address a specific aspect of the pressing concern of human trafficking. While this is both commendable and necessary, much of the anti-trafficking work is carried out by small non-profit organizations, of which many are characterized by having limited resources (both financial and human capital). My [REDACTED] research will examine the nature of the relationship between EU anti-trafficking policy and the daily activity of small non-profit organizations in [REDACTED], with a particular emphasis on whether or not EU policy is supporting the work of these organizations.

As a student in the [REDACTED] program, I intend to build on my [REDACTED] thesis by incorporating research on the [REDACTED] non-profit sector engaged in anti-trafficking work. In addition, my dissertation will allow me to further examine factors which hinder non-profit organizations (in [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]) from having a greater impact on society. For example, I intend to study such factors as the limited human capital available to this sector and how this correlates to the debatable quality of research being carried out by non-profit organizations. Furthermore, non-profit organizations with limited human capital are limited in the quality of services they can provide. By researching this topic, I hope to be a part of developing solutions designed to strengthen and broaden the positive impact of this sector on society, as well as solutions designed to address the issue of human trafficking.

¹ I intend to start this program in the [REDACTED] academic year and will be informed about the status of my application in [REDACTED].

² I will complete the credits for this degree by the end of the [REDACTED] semester and I am planning to defend my thesis during the [REDACTED] with an anticipated graduation date of [REDACTED].

³ The EU Strategy is online at: <http://ec.europa.eu/anti-trafficking>

My initial interest in [REDACTED] came about as a result of my [REDACTED] thesis and program work. Once I knew I would be conducting research in [REDACTED], I decided to enroll in [REDACTED] (as an audit) for the [REDACTED] in order to begin language study. I have continued my language study by auditing [REDACTED] this semester [REDACTED]. My time in [REDACTED] this summer will enable me to have a more informal language learning experience by immersing myself in the language as a result of daily life tasks as well as my research. Next year, I plan to enroll in [REDACTED] in order to continue developing my language skills, as proficiency in [REDACTED] is not only essential to my [REDACTED] thesis, but also to my dissertation research.

My study of [REDACTED] began in [REDACTED], when I moved to [REDACTED] in order to work for a small non-profit organization. I engaged in both formal and informal language learning, with a balance between formal classroom settings with other students and private language instruction. I studied [REDACTED] throughout my time in [REDACTED] [REDACTED] with perhaps one of my most enjoyable and memorable experiences being a recent opportunity to return to [REDACTED] in order to complete my degree at [REDACTED] [REDACTED]. In [REDACTED] I successfully defended my thesis (written in [REDACTED] defended orally in [REDACTED]) on the topic of the American academic interest in the [REDACTED] agricultural sector.

As a recipient of the FLAS Fellowship for the current academic year [REDACTED] to study [REDACTED], I have continued to improve my [REDACTED] skills, specifically in the area of vocabulary building and speaking. This has been particularly valuable, such as when I was preparing to defend my [REDACTED] thesis, yet my study of [REDACTED] will continue to be important because of my social work dissertation and future career goals. In order to incorporate the [REDACTED] non-profit sector into my dissertation, I will need to be able to read broadly and also synthesize large amounts of information in [REDACTED]. Also, I anticipate needing to conduct interviews with [REDACTED] professionals in [REDACTED]. A Summer FLAS Fellowship will help me in the process of preparing for this challenging work by allowing me to further develop my skills in reading, writing, listening, and speaking. I have not only benefited, but also enjoyed my Academic Year FLAS Fellowship to study [REDACTED] and I am looking forward to the challenge of enrolling in a summer intensive course.

From a linguistic perspective, [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] are quite different from each other. Yet, greater proficiency in both these languages will assist me in achieving my academic and professional goals. [REDACTED] will be of particular importance for my [REDACTED] thesis, however both languages are important for my dissertation research. I have witnessed and experienced firsthand the advantages which come from the ability to function in another language. I am thoroughly enjoying the challenge of simultaneously studying [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] and look forward to using both these languages in my research this summer, future dissertation research, and my future career as a [REDACTED] engaged in anti-trafficking work in [REDACTED].